Four-year-old child missing four hours found safe & sound

by Marvin McIlwain
Editor

The unknown whereabouts of a four-year-old boy caused several anxious hours for his mother, relatives, neighbors and rescuers last Thursday afternoon.

Everything turned out okay when a neighbor returned home and the young lad, Allen Michael Vines, age 4, was found to be safe and sound. The youngster had not been lost - just misplaced.

The neighbor had taken the little boy swimming along with two or three other youngsters. He thought that the mother, Sharon Elaine Harbuck, knew her son was with him. He, along with the children, was surprised when they returned home and found the street full of people and vehicles. They did not know that anybody was looking for them or that anybody was "lost."

Mrs. Harbuck was concerned that her son might have wandered off into the wooded area either in front or to the rear of the residence.

An attempt to locate the neighbor was initiated by the Elba Police Department. Area towns were alerted giving the name and description of the neighbor and type vehicle being driven.

It was hoped that the neighbor and child could be found quickly or at least, it could be determined if the child was or was not with the neighbor.

While an attempt to locate the "missing neighbor" was being made, a detailed search of the neighborhood and the wooded areas, both in front of and to the rear of the residence, was made by volunteers.

Due to the weather, an aerial search of the area could not be made by the Civil Air Patrol, however, CAP ground units participated in the search operation.

Preparations were being made for the search to continue into the night when the missing youngster showed up with the neighbor at approximately 5:20 p.m.

An Alabama State Trooper helicopter equipped with a powerful search light was in the process of being dispatched to the Elba area to participate in the search for the little boy.

The operation had lasted approximately 3 hours from the time police were called to the residence.

The only comments heard at the end of the operation was: "I'm glad he's okay!" and "This is the way I like for them (search missions) to end - everybody safe!"

County Sheriff's Department, Elba Fire Department, Civil Air Patrol, Opp Rescue Squad, Coffee County Emergency Management Agency and numerous other volunteers came to assist in the search. There were between 150 and 200 who came to offer their help.

PUBLIC MEETING ON U.S. HWY. 84

The State of Alabama Highway Department will hold a public hearing next Tuesday night on the proposed four-laning of U.S. Hwy. 84.

An advertisement in this issue of The Elba Clipper announces the planned meeting, which will be held in the Elba Elementary School Cafeteria.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend this formal meeting, ask questions and view the options being considered by the highway department.

Elba BOE names David Stokes as assistant principal at high school

by Ferrin Cox
Publisher

David Stokes has been named Assistant Principal at Elba High School following a recommendation by Superintendent Charles Pearce. He has been teaching computer science prior to the action this week.

Named to head the Alternative School was Pastine Robinson. Mrs. Robinson was previously secretary at the high school. The Alternative School is a new in-school suspension program approved last year by the school board. Rather than suspending students and putting them on the streets, the first option will be assignment to this program. It will include completing all school work and has none of the privileges of mixing with the other students. Replacing her in the high school office will be Leona Siler.

Jeff Ellis was hired to serve as high school band director. He comes to Elba from Red Level. Pearce told board members Ellis' band program at the Covington County school was excellent.

An assistant band director is to be hired, however Pearce said he was not ready to make a recommendation for that position yet.

Six aides were hired for the elementary school. One as a transfer and five new employees. The transfer was Given Reeves from Special Education. The new hires are Gena Bentow, Shirin Dye, Joe Crain, Rosalind Brown and Connie Smith. Smith will work in the new "Writing to Read" computer lab.

The board approved a one year janitorial contract with Mighty Clean, who finished out the last year as contractor at the high school.

The new contract is for one year and includes the high school, elementary school and the central office. The cost is $9,100 per month for the nine months school is in session each year.

Pearce told board members the cost would be about the same as, or slightly lower, than doing the work with in-house employees, but without the management responsibility.

Pearce said Mighty Clean was not the low bidder, but was the lowest qualified bidder. He explained to board members that three of five references of the lowest bidder told him they wouldn't hire the firm again.

Commission buys scales & okays budget changes

by Marvin McIlwain
Editor

The Coffee County Commission met in regular session Monday morning holding one of its shortest meetings in quite a while.

Commissioners' favorite topic, the landfill, only came up briefly when bids were opened for scales to be installed at the landfill site.

Fairbanks Scale Service of Birmingham, Alabama was low bidder at $47,707.00. They were awarded the bid. Only one other bid of $47,950.00 was received by the commission.

The only other items of business coming before the commission were a report by Charlie Webb, director of Coffee County Emergency Management Agency; a request for a budget change from Alfred Edwards, chairman of the Coffee County Board of Registrars; and Mark Pool, county engineer, reported on funds being received by the highway department.

Webb told commissioners that the county came through with flying colors on an unannounced inspection by the EPA (Environment Protection Agency).

The EPA official reviewed county files and inspected two areas businesses - Dosey Trailers in Elba and D & H Chemical in New Brockton.

According to Webb, there were more businesses on their list to be inspected, but they were so pleased with the first two inspected, they chose to go no further.

The companies were inspected on their procedures for handling chemicals that could possibly be hazardous to the environment. Their records were also inspected by the EPA.

Mr. Edwards, with the Board of Registrars, requested approval for a budget change totaling $2,600.00 and an additional $2,900.00 in funds.

He told commissioners that due to "an unexpected increase of postage expense," and the purging of the voters list, there was a need for additional funds.

A $200 shortage in "budgeted postage" was caused when the registrars' office had to send out registered letters to convicted felons notifying them that they had lost their voting rights. A total of 87 names were sent to the Board by the state.

The transferring of $200 from budgeted funds for unemployment will cover the extra postage expense.

Edwards told commissioners that by making the budget adjustments and the additional funds, the problem could be solved. The commission approved Edwards' request.

It was noted that the circumstances which brought about the additional expenses were due to compliance with voting laws.

The additional $2,900, plus the transferring of $1,900 from "office supplies" and $500 from "office equipment" within the present budget, will be used to pay for the publication of "potentials for the inactive voters' list."

These names are currently being unpublished in two of the county's newspapers, The Elba Clipper and The Southeast Sun.

Names appearing on the published list will be placed on the "inactive voters' list" as of August 1st, if the Board of Registrars is not notified.

Pool gave the commissioners some good news. He told them the state highway department has allocated, to the county, an additional $200,000.00 in FAS (Federal Aid Secondary) funds.

These funds were a result of other counties not using monies allocated to them and Coffee County having the proper paperwork submitted to obtain these "excess funds."

Maps were supplied to the commission.

Highway department offers city a bridge

by Ferrin Cox
Publisher

Representatives of the Alabama Highway Department were present at the Elba City Council meeting Monday night and asked that Elba take over maintenance of Highway 125 (Smith Avenue) from 203 and including the "crooked bridge" across Whitewater Creek.

Lomax Fulford and Ronnie Ball explained to the council that this was their preferred of several options.

The other options included replacing the bridge with a new, modern structure near the present bridge or re-routing through the old high school property and constructing a new bridge much further out Smith Avenue. They acknowledged that the department had considered cutting Highway 125 off at the bypass and completely eliminating a downtown bridge completely but had discarded that idea.

The former option would eliminate eight or ten homes near the present bridge (two or three East of the bridge and five or six on the West or town side of the bridge). This would be to allow raising the bridge above flood level.

Rerouting through the old school grounds would be the most expensive of the options, explained Ball. It would also eliminate several homes. Current highway standards require building bridges and roads to withstand flooding. That route would be over a long area of flood plain and would require expensive work.

Ball assured the council that the present bridge (crooked bridge) is structurally sound and should last for at least 50 years with minor maintenance.

City Clerk Jeff Goodson told the council the two new police cars would be picked up in Birmingham on Wednesday of this week. He painted a picture of problems and miscommunication that had caused the extended delay.

In other business the police chief told the council that the police department will take some action "early next year," both Ball and Fulford told council members.

The council tabled the matter until their next meeting with a promise to make a decision at that time.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

A Coffee County lady was bitten on the ankle by a rattlesnake Saturday in a neighboring county. After she told the only person she could find of the life threatening incident, he just advised her to drive herself to the hospital. She made it to the Emergency hospital and Tuesday morning was crediting the fact she survived to remaining calm. She marveled at her ability to do that under the circumstances, but hopes anyone who experiences the same problem will remember to REMAIN CALM AND GET TO THE DOCTOR.

Jimmy Foley died this week. It is not necessary to identify him any further to those who knew him, but those who didn't know him wouldn't understand. They also missed an institution, Jimmy's family officially included a brother and his wife and their son. Unofficially Jimmy's family included anyone who ever lived in or visited downtown Elba.

Your Elba City Fathers spent two hours in executive session Monday night. This is the third meeting in a row which included an unexplained executive session. Those present at the meeting are only told the closed meeting is to discuss "the good name and character of someone." Alabama law allows this and only this in executive session. Recent court rulings indicate it must be only "good name and character" and not even an employee's work habits. These same courts make it clear that each elected member of the body participating in illegal executive session is equally guilty of violating the law. We were awake until after 3 a.m. anguishing over this matter following that Monday meeting. This executive session was privately questioned after it's conclusion and body language indicated the striking of a raw nerve, but so be it. With all the problems Elba has faced (and is facing), it is hard to understand openly inviting more of the same. We have no doubt the mayor is right in saying they mentioned names in those meetings. However, if any of our readers believe the city council, city attorney, assistant district attorney, district judge and about eight police officers, including Dolan police, spent over two hours discussing ONLY the good name and character of individuals, you are a good candidate for some beach front property in Tennessee! Neither can they say "Gosh, we didn't know" because the League of Municipalities informs city officials every time someone gets hit with a lawsuit on the matter. Also there were at least five lawyers (or people with law degrees) in that meeting Monday night.

There are reasons to believe the meetings have centered around the police chief's frustrations with enforcing the law in today's changing society and his needs for new enforcement tools. The details of his preventive measures probably don't need to be discussed publicly, but it is a violation of Alabama law the way it is being done.

We have been urged to support the proposed curfew law in Elba. Questions about the proposed law and perceived shortcomings of the same have been asked by our readers and in turn we asked the same of city officials. We were then encouraged by the mayor and police chief to assure the many doubters who are addressing their concerns to us that they can "trust us." This means we are being asked to convince you to trust people who selectively obey the law themselves... laws they swore an oath to obey just a short month ago. Elba may need (and get) a curfew law, but under the conditions discussed above we can't ask our readers to "trust us." It will take a better foundation to stop our warring of the warning flag.

If in fact, the concern is over the beginning of "gang activity" in Elba, we question why not follow the advice of nationally recognized experts and express these concerns publicly. No law enforcement agency in the world, even in communist Russia, can govern, or enforce rules and laws, until the public accepts. Now will the public help cure a new problem unless the people understand there is a problem... history has proven that over and over. You don't inform the public or get that necessary support from executive sessions. You only generate doubts, if not outright contempt.

Rest assured, we don't have the answers to the world's problems, or even those facing Elba. However, just listening to our readers indicates to us that our friends and neighbors, the Elba City Fathers, are plunging head first down that proverbial primrose path.

NAFTA Ignores The Plight Of The American Farmer

The American farmer has long been the envy of the world. No other nation can even come close to matching the quality and productivity of these agricultural entrepreneurs. For this reason it is ironic that U.S. supporters of free trade with Mexico are willing to sacrifice the future well-being of the American farmer and the American consumer.

Last week, I joined with representatives of the National Farmers Union for a Capitol Hill press conference spotlighting the plight of the American farmer under the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

At home in the Second District, peanut farmers are very uneasy at the prospect of Mexican product "dumping" once NAFTA is approved. Right now, only 774 metric tons of foreign peanuts are shipped here each year. Under NAFTA, Mexico would be able to increase this volume by more than four times to 3,377 metric tons, much of which will originate from third party countries like China and Argentina.

This dumping of cheap, inferior quality peanuts will not only drive Alabama peanut farmers out of business, but will put the public's health at risk due to the lack of quality control safeguards in NAFTA.

I have been accused of being a "protectionist" for not supporting the so-called free trade benefits of NAFTA. I am only a protectionist when it comes to protecting American jobs. I certainly am in favor of increased investment opportunities for American business, but not at the expense of the American worker and farmer. NAFTA must be renegotiated or our economy faces certain disaster.

Comer DeVane was Elba's first embaler. He worked for Bonneau-Jeter all of his life. For some reason, nearly every funeral home evolved from owners of hardware stores. It was that way nearly everywhere. My father saw a need for a funeral parlor in Brantley, AL. He rented a building on Morgan Main Street and hired I.D. Morgan as funeral director. He was an uncle to Mary Louise Morgan Collier. When he had a death and they wanted embalming, one of us from Elba had to go and handle it. This is a particular story I called me one rainy night and told me he had a gentleman there whose mother had died. I went immediately over. When I arrived and was introduced to the man, he said he lived north of town on an unimproved road and it would be hard to get in and out with the body. I was a young, smart, and ed young guy who grew up on dirt roads. I told him, "If you got out I can surely get in and out." He said, "Yes sir, but I come out on a horse." My ego shrunk but after putting on chains and scopes and shovels, we made it. It was not easy. During this same period I had to have someone to help me. I found young Frank Clark. Still in High School, Buddy Clark and Minnie Lee, his wife, and their family lived on the Taylor Mill Road about where Branch Trail Court is now. Frank was a jewel. He was willing to help in any way and was most capable. One week we had 5 funerals and I would get him up at all times of the night and go to the school to get him to help.

The Victoria road was notorious for being one of the slickest ones around. There was a saying, "You can pour a 10 quart bucket of water down hill in Victoria and you can't get to Elba." It was terrible. The road was red clay and they kept it hog-hocked to run the water off. We were in the Victoria Church when it started raining. We knew we were in trouble. I grew up on unimproved roads. Very few were paved. As long as you could keep one side of the vehicle on top and straddle the hog back you were alright. When you met someone and had to give them half of the road, that is when trouble began. We met someone. That big horse started to slide the back end towards the ditch. I stopped the horse to keep it from going into the ditch. I told Frank to pull his shoes and socks off, roll his pants legs up and get ahold of the back bumper and pull it back up into the road while I cased it into gear. Frank looked at me and said, "Jake, I never have refused to do what you asked me, but I weigh 140 pounds. This horse weighs 6,000 pounds." I told Frank to just go ahead and do it. I cased along and Frank pulled it back into the road and got back in, muddy feet and all. He said, "I'll be dogged. I worked it."

A baby, new born, died. I sold the casket and the family just wanted a grave service at Zoar Cemetery with no preacher. Several people gathered there and I thought it was not proper not to have something said before burial. I saw Mr. John Rushing was there and asked him to say a prayer. He said, "I beg to be excused. You go right ahead," which I did.

A lady here in Elba died. She was only about 35 years old. The funeral was to be held at the Damascus Church. I asked her husband if he wanted me to notify the preacher. He said the preacher he wanted was in a revival meeting at Samson and he would let him know. Frank and I arrived at the church and everyone followed us and the casket into the church. This was the old wooden building with the cemetery across the street. The preacher had said "I want there after a while and people were getting edgy. Frank came up and whispered to me, "Jake what are you going to do if the preacher don't show up?" I have one of those voices that really came well. I thought I was whispering back to him when I said, "I will not show up. I'll preach it myself." After about 10 minutes the husband of the deceased got up and walked up to me and said, "Mr. Bonneau, it's alright. You go right ahead with it." I always carried a Bible in the hearse. Frank went and got it. I had heard enough funerals. I never heard of anyone being preached into heaven or hell either. You made that yourself before you died.

All of this I have been telling about occurred in late 1940 until probably early 1942. Frank joined the U.S. Navy and when he asked him his full name he said, Frank Clark. They told him they needed to have a middle name in case of too many Frank Clark's. I was quite honored and will always consider it a great compliment that he chose "Jacob." Frank retired from the Navy, got several college degrees and taught for years at Enterprise Junior College. I hope I never forget the early years. I love and learn.

Remembering With Jake

By Jake Bonneau

Since I'll very soon talk about driving on the Coffee County dirt roads of long ago, I will tell how I started driving. I was always rather big for my age. Later I was just big. My father taught me to drive when I was 12 years old. We had a big Buick auto. It was a 1930 model. The frames of cars in that day were wooden, covered with metal. Of course the fenders and hood were heavy metal. The bumpers were made of spring steel. Our car was 4 door. You could almost open the back door and walk into it. The door posts on each side that separated the front from the back, had a flower bud vase on each side. It was thought to be rather elegant to place a rose bud in each when you were making a trip. This monster is what I learned to drive. On Sunday afternoon, my parents would let me take the girls out for a drive. I could be gone for 1 hour. We were all careful to be back in that hour. No one wanted to be grounded and we knew better than to test my parents. No drivers license were required until Oct. 1, 1936. You had to be 16 years old before you could get your license. I would not be 16 until Dec. 12, 1936. We were taught to never disobey the law so I was miserable that short time not being able to drive. There was no test to take. Just pay the Proctor Judge 25 or 50 cents and you got your little piece of paper to drive legally. It was a great feeling.

Of course I grew up driving on dirt roads. Some of them were real bad. Some had some gravel mixed in the clay. That was considered a good road.

It was that way nearly everywhere. My father saw a need for a funeral parlor in Brantley, AL. He rented a building on Morgan Main Street and hired I.D. Morgan as funeral director. He was an uncle to Mary Louise Morgan Collier. When he had a death and they wanted embalming, one of us from Elba had to go and handle it. This is a particular story I called me one rainy night and told me he had a gentleman there whose mother had died. I went immediately over. When I arrived and was introduced to the man, he said he lived north of town on an unimproved road and it would be hard to get in and out with the body. I was a young, smart, and ed young guy who grew up on dirt roads. I told him, "If you got out I can surely get in and out." He said, "Yes sir, but I come out on a horse." My ego shrunk but after putting on chains and scopes and shovels, we made it. It was not easy. During this same period I had to have someone to help me. I found young Frank Clark. Still in High School, Buddy Clark and Minnie Lee, his wife, and their family lived on the Taylor Mill Road about where Branch Trail Court is now. Frank was a jewel. He was willing to help in any way and was most capable. One week we had 5 funerals and I would get him up at all times of the night and go to the school to get him to help.

The Victoria road was notorious for being one of the slickest ones around. There was a saying, "You can pour a 10 quart bucket of water down hill in Victoria and you can't get to Elba." It was terrible. The road was red clay and they kept it hog-hocked to run the water off. We were in the Victoria Church when it started raining. We knew we were in trouble. I grew up on unimproved roads. Very few were paved. As long as you could keep one side of the vehicle on top and straddle the hog back you were alright. When you met someone and had to give them half of the road, that is when trouble began. We met someone. That big horse started to slide the back end towards the ditch. I stopped the horse to keep it from going into the ditch. I told Frank to pull his shoes and socks off, roll his pants legs up and get ahold of the back bumper and pull it back up into the road while I cased it into gear. Frank looked at me and said, "Jake, I never have refused to do what you asked me, but I weigh 140 pounds. This horse weighs 6,000 pounds." I told Frank to just go ahead and do it. I cased along and Frank pulled it back into the road and got back in, muddy feet and all. He said, "I'll be dogged. I worked it."

A baby, new born, died. I sold the casket and the family just wanted a grave service at Zoar Cemetery with no preacher. Several people gathered there and I thought it was not proper not to have something said before burial. I saw Mr. John Rushing was there and asked him to say a prayer. He said, "I beg to be excused. You go right ahead," which I did.

A lady here in Elba died. She was only about 35 years old. The funeral was to be held at the Damascus Church. I asked her husband if he wanted me to notify the preacher. He said the preacher he wanted was in a revival meeting at Samson and he would let him know. Frank and I arrived at the church and everyone followed us and the casket into the church. This was the old wooden building with the cemetery across the street. The preacher had said "I want there after a while and people were getting edgy. Frank came up and whispered to me, "Jake what are you going to do if the preacher don't show up?" I have one of those voices that really came well. I thought I was whispering back to him when I said, "I will not show up. I'll preach it myself." After about 10 minutes the husband of the deceased got up and walked up to me and said, "Mr. Bonneau, it's alright. You go right ahead with it." I always carried a Bible in the hearse. Frank went and got it. I had heard enough funerals. I never heard of anyone being preached into heaven or hell either. You made that yourself before you died.

All of this I have been telling about occurred in late 1940 until probably early 1942. Frank joined the U.S. Navy and when he asked him his full name he said, Frank Clark. They told him they needed to have a middle name in case of too many Frank Clark's. I was quite honored and will always consider it a great compliment that he chose "Jacob." Frank retired from the Navy, got several college degrees and taught for years at Enterprise Junior College. I hope I never forget the early years. I love and learn.

Tracie Johnson Was A Participant In The Wiregrass Writing Project VIII At TSU

Tracie Johnson, fifth grade teacher at Elba Elementary School, was selected as a participant for the Wiregrass Writing Project VIII Summer Institute, June 28 - July 29 at Troy State University at Troy.

Wiregrass Writing Project is affiliated with the national writing project, a network of 165 projects in forty-eight states and six foreign countries. The National Writing Project is supported by individual donations, by the National Endowment for the Humanities, and by Carnegie-Mellon Foundation. Each participant will present a teaching demonstration which elicits effective writing. By the end of the institute, each teacher participant will be a writing resource consultant, a member of trained cadre, prepared to conduct inservice workshops centered on writing and to assist other teachers of writing in implementing writing programs in their classroom.

USDA Conducts Dairy Referendum August 5-16

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) will conduct a mail referendum August 5-16 to determine whether dairy producers favor continuing the national dairy promotion and research order. Ballots for the referendum will be made available by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

For the program to continue, USDA officials say a simple majority of those voting must favor it. All dairy producers who were engaged in the production of milk for commercial use during April 1993 will be eligible to vote in the August referendum. Only one vote is permitted for each dairy farm business unit, and cooperative associations may vote on behalf of its producers members. A producer who opposes the cooperative's vote may cast an individual ballot with the member's differing vote.

Dairy producers may request ballots and other referendum materials from our office during regular business hours. ASCS Official David W. Eaddy said.

He said producers who have questions should call the toll free number (800-858-7501) shown on the reverse side of the official ballot.

USDA received petitions with over 16,000 signatures requesting a referendum on the continuation of the national dairy promotion program.

Elba Country Club 3-Man Tourney attracts large number of golfers

by Marvin McLain
Editor

Once again, the Elba Country Club was the place to be if you like to play or watch golf.

The ECC held its annual 3-Man Scramble Golf Tournament on Saturday & Sunday, July 17th and 18th.

There were 144 area golfers from South Alabama and Northwest Florida participating in the two-day event.

Rain, on Sunday, threatened to cut short tournament play, as it did last year, but after an hour delay, the golfers were able to return to the links. All golfers played 36 holes and almost all of them had a good time doing so.

This event has become one of the most attractive golf tournaments in the area because of the "good ole fashion southern hospitality" shown to all those who come to play.

Be it home folks or strangers, players or spectators, everyone is made to feel welcome at the Elba Country Club.

Each year, the tournament roster fills up early and there are several on the waiting or cancellation lists wanting to play.

This year's winners were as follows (Note: We apologize for listing only the last names of some of the golfers, but first names were not available):

CHAMPIONSHIP "A" FLT. (Tournament Champs) - Terry Mobley, Buddy Clark & Joey Holley.

CHAMPIONSHIP "B" FLT. - Jacobs, Turk & Sanford.

CHAMPIONSHIP "C" FLT. -

(Tie) Perdue, Stephens & Stephens, Williams, Jenkins & Stephens.

1ST FLIGHT - Smith, Willis & Willis.

2ND FLIGHT - Matthews, Morgan & Allison.

3RD FLIGHT - Stevenson, Wicker & Wicker.

TOURNAMENT WINNERS: CLARK, HOLLEY & MOBLEY

missioners showing proposed roads where these funds may be used. The commissioners will study the maps and hopefully a decision will be made at the next meeting on what projects will be funded.

Pool also informed the commission that several road projects had been slowed due to the concentrated work on the county landfill. The deadline for having the landfill constructed is September 28, 1993.

Other actions taken during the commission meeting were as follows:

Approved the sending out of bid requests to supply parts (small, frequently used) to the county shop on an annual basis.

Commissioners asked to review a "rough draft" of Personnel Policy & Procedures Manual presently being prepared by Auburn University.

Signed a resolution approving the sale of bonds to finance the county landfill by First Alabama Bank. The average interest rate over the life of the bonds is estimated to be 4.47 percent.

When Your Time Is Up

The winter palace of Elizabeth, John 5:24, "Most assuredly, I say to you, he who hears My word and believes in Him who sent Me has everlasting life, and shall not come into judgment, but has passed from death into life." When one enters into a personal relationship with God by faith through the Lord Jesus Christ, then his time is never up but instead is everlasting. Give Jesus your heart and life today before your time is up.
